How many lost ones there are tonight who fully intended sometime to be saved. How many there are who are in the depths of woe who had made up their minds that sometime they were coming to Christ, but they went on and Death caught them in their sins and now they are beyond all hope of mercy. How long halt ye between two opinions? Oh, that tonight you might settle it by turning to the Lord Jesus Christ. I have such a burden on my heart for you dear ones tonight. I have preached my heart out to some of you, many of you have sat here all through the years on the Lord's Day evening and some of you are still unsaved. Oh, I would that I might see you coming to Christ tonight, and so I make this last appeal in the Name of my Blessed Lord, who loved you enough to die for you, and I plead with you, why not come to Him tonight, why not accept Him, accept his mercy?
