The Crocodile Who Was Afraid of the Dentist (Fear Beaters) Daniel Forde-Pogson

Children of all ages have fears and dislikes. This series of short children's stories aims to help parents discuss some of these with their children to help them overcome these fears and grow stronger.

Each heart-warming story, aimed at 3-6 year olds, is based on the adventures of animals and how they deal with fears they have - with the help of their family and friends.

We also include discussion points and useful questions to help you and your child think about the story - and maybe how it could help them too.

In this story we meet a crocodile who really needs to go to the dentist because he has a broken tooth. The problem is that he's afraid to go - until a friend helps him to understand that dentist's are really friends too.
